

Main Entrance with bluestone setts

Internal bluestone stair case

Private Residence Beaumaris

Bayside developer, Rod Davies of Protech, has constructed an exciting contemporary residential property in Beaumaris.

The three dimensional front pathway extends through the house and intrudes into the rear courtyard creating a solid backbone. It is clad with tumbled bluestone setts.

Reflecting this, a vertical monolith clad with the same material, arises from the ground. The cladding is softer than the rendering on the other parts of the property. Light plays off the bluestone and allows the blade to become organic without losing its solid presence.

The house sits atop a natural stone landscape softening the contemporary lines of the main structure.

Builder Protech Landscape Architect Linton LaFontaine

Deconstructed amphitheatre

Georgian residence Hawthorn

Haddonstone

Kooyongkoot Road Hawthorn

This property, designed by Rosenthal Monkton Shields, is a fine example of Georgian architecture. The portico, with its exact proportions and crisp moulded detail, is another example of how Haddonstone products add great value to a fine residence.